Toronto. University. Victoria college.

Since 1860 one of the arts colleges of the University of Toronto. The history of Victoria college prior to its federation with the University of Toronto is identical with that of Victoria university, and is as follows:

1855, incorporated by royal charter as Upper Canada academy, located at Cobourg.

1861, charter extended and name changed to Victoria college (called variously in its publications Victoria college, Victoria university, and University of Victoria college).

1864, Albert college, Belleville, incorporated with Victoria college, and corporate name changed to Victoria university.

1865, federated with the University of Toronto.

1867, removed from Cobourg to Toronto; faculties of law and medicine discontinued.

Toronto. University. Victoria college. (Card 3)

In theology, Victoria university remains entirely independent, and confers degrees under its corporate name of "Victoria university."

As "Victoria college," the institution forms one of the arts colleges of the University of Toronto, and confers no degrees.

Publications which were issued by Victoria university (under its various names) from 1858-1860, and publications of the independent faculties of Victoria university dating from 1860 (comprising at present theology only) are to be entered in the Library of Congress catalog under:

Victoria university, Toronto.

Publications of Victoria college from 1860 on, are to be entered under:

Mélanges Maurice Hauriou. Paris, Recueil Sirey (société anonyme) 1939.

xiv, 302 p. 1 l. front. (port.) 25^m.

"La Faculté de droit de Toulouse a pensé qu'à un moment ou le doyen Hauriou vient de toucher à l'âge de la retraite, il conviendrait de donner à ce très grand juriste et à ce remarquable inventeur d'idées un témoignage de l'affection et de la vive admiration qu'il avait pour lui en France et à l'étranger ses pairs, ses disciples et ceux-là même qui se paraient pas ses conceptions scientifiques. Elle a donc décidé de publier par souscription un volume de 'Mélanges Maurice Hauriou'."—p. 17.
